We are all better than our worst day, decision, or choice. We have employed many graduates of the Operation New Hope program and are incredibly proud of the effort they continue make everyday on the job at Bono's. We find that a second chance combined with the pride of employment leads to a promising future for those seeking to improve their lives and contribute to society."

All people make mistakes. We all must learn to forgive and forget. The employees we have hired from Ready4Work have been fantastic, loyal, and a joy to be around. They are appreciative of a job and really work hard. I see a bright future for all of them."

- Chuck Parliment, Owner
Parliment Building Products

I personally believe in second chances because I was given a second chance and our company embodies that belief. We know that it's critical to get involved in our community through programs like Operation New Hope and also support community involvement by working with organizations who do great things for people who need it most."

- Christopher Caprio, President
Ashley HomeStore

When we can tap Operation New Hope for talent, it gives us an opportunity to bypass traditional hiring process of posting the position, sifting through hundreds of resumes, and setting up multiple interviews. Ready4Work vets the candidates for us, and they are some of the hardest workers we have on our team."
